Laurie thanked the Executive for the kind words, letters and flowers after the passing of her dad. It was greatly appreciated.

4. Reports

4.1. President

Digital fluency badges:

- How can the ISTE standards be inserted without taking up so much web space? The standards need to be included, but short enough for teachers to still feel it is valuable and not too much text.
- Is linking to the standards rigorous enough? Carlene would like to have a mockup of the incorporated standards before the conversation with ISTE
- Carlene sent a proposal to present with Carla at ISTE in Philadelphia under the ISTE umbrella
- The conversation revolved around how to ensure teachers know that using ISTE standards has made them a better teacher. Why does this matter to our students? It aligns with standard chart with a librarian checklist along with ISTE standards for coaches. "This aligns with ISTI standards and to see the entire document, please click here..."

ACTION: Carlene will design the web site to include the standards and will send a mock up page to executive for ideas and suggestions.

- Promotional video storyboard was created with Carla. Video production has started and is anticipated to be complete by the October 22nd deadline.

ACTION: Carlene will fix AudioBoo to AudioBoom on digital fluency site.

BookBytes Social

- BookBytes Social was cancelled because McNally did their own. Carlene was disappointed and did express this to McNally. Indigo was not interested.

ACTION: Please inform Carlene about communication issues immediately rather than waiting for the meeting.

MultiType Library

- Carlene was denied attendance at the MultiType library meeting. The ministry will be in contact with Saskatoon Public Schools to discuss.

New Business

Correspondence – CLA Leading Learning News

Linda Shantz-Kerestzes (CLA Advisory Chair) & Judith Sykes (LL Project Coordinator) have met with Valoree McKay, Executive Director for CLA, and are pleased by CLA Executive Council's response to our June meeting with them in Victoria. As per our requests, CLA Executive Council agreed to undertake the following:

- The development of a one-page graphically enhanced and branded briefing note summarizing the key points of the standard (in draft with the designer now & hopefully ready for Oct 27 national school library day)
- Write and send letters requesting support/endorsement of Leading Learning accompanied by the one-pager to identified organizations (e.g. CME) and government ministries as well as provincial teaching federations, provincial associations, associations for school administrators/superintendents, ALA. (Hopefully also end of Oct)
- Will arrange for French translation: ASTED Quebec has verbally agreed to undertake, again hopefully by end of Oct.

Executive Council decided that they could not undertake the development of a website at the moment due to cost, they did however agree to ensure that there was a place for LL on the existing CLA website and will revisit the request once CLA's new website platform was decided upon and launched. The possibility of a school library event at CLA Conference 2015 in Ottawa was also discussed. Valoree informed us that CLA is going through big changes as to how they are going to be doing conferences in the future. We shared that Voices/OSLA/TALCO would be willing to work on a school library event/mini-conference. Valoree will get back to us with an update on how to proceed with this. We anticipate there will also be a call for new CLA school library advisory members early in 2015 so please encourage SSLA members to start thinking about joining the national effort; I will let you know when I hear more about that.

What's new at the Multitype Library Board?

Annual General Meeting

The 2014 AGM was held at the MacKenzie Art Gallery, Agra Torchinsky Salon on April 2, 2014. It was an opportunity for the community to come together to chart future directions for cooperation among the sectors.

49 people from libraries, archives and museums attended the Board AGM. In the morning Brett Waytuck, Provincial Librarian and Executive Director of Literacy Office, talked about libraries' future roles in content production. Rob Zylstra, Executive Director of the Saskatchewan Information and Library Services (SILS), provided an update on future directions of SILS, including evaluating all current services, a common user experience across libraries, and an alternative discovery service.

Through co-operation, libraries contribute to the social and economic development of citizens of Saskatchewan.

Craig Harkema from the University of Saskatchewan presented on the latest Saskatchewan History Online (SHO) portal, as well as new collections added to SHO. SHO includes a wide range of cultural and historical materials from libraries, archives, museums and galleries. The Saskatchewan Archives Board newspaper project, part of SHO, is nearly ready for its launch. The first phase will include newspapers from the 1880s to 1914 to coincide with the centenary of WWI. The University of Saskatchewan will also hire students to translate headlines from community newspapers published in a number of languages.

Michael Shires introduced a timeline of library cooperation in Saskatchewan, which multitype members compiled over the last year. http://www.dipity.com/Sask_Libraries/Sask-Libraries-Cooperation/.

Correspondence – Alberta Library Conference

The Alberta Library Conference (ALC) 2015 Planning Committee, with support from the Library Association of Alberta (LAA) and the Alberta Library Trustees Association (ALTA), is pleased to announce that the call for proposals for the 2015 Alberta Library Conference is open. ALC 2015 takes place in Jasper, Alberta April 30 to May 3, 2015.

The ALC 2015 theme is #network. On its own, the word network has many meanings for libraries. The hashtag (#) takes this year's theme to a different level. By the simple act of adding a hashtag to a word or phrase, it becomes searchable on social media, organized by subject or topic, and, if promoted by enough individuals, can "trend" and attract more people to the discussion. What are your strategies for building networks in your library and community groups? What role do libraries play in creating and facilitating community conversations? What are the important social trends that are impacting and shaping the service you design and provide? The #network theme also encompasses the personal networks we form. How does personal networking help improve your library and your life? For example, what kind of networking takes place at this conference and how does it benefit our libraries?

The Committee strives to provide a range of sessions that are of interest to the broader library community in Alberta. Proposals from small rural libraries to large academic institutions demonstrate the complexity of librarianship as well as the adaptability and diversity of those who work within them. We encourage proposals from academic, public, school and special libraries of all sizes for consideration to present at the conference.

We are interested in receiving proposals from trustees for sessions which will provide education and training for Library Board members. If you are a public librarian, please share this call for submissions with your Board. In addition, if trustees have suggestions for speakers or topics of interest to trustees, they are invited to send them to Dr. Tanya Pollard to see if a session can be developed.

If you would like to be part of our program focused on examining and expanding our networks and exploring some of the many possibilities for connections facilitated by libraries through our people, services and spaces, please submit your proposal at Alberta Library Conference 2014 Call for Session Proposals <http://bit.ly/1tKVLGh>

Submission deadline is September 30, 2014. Thank you for your interest in the Alberta Library Conference.
